— PROLOGUE —
DAY "ZERO"

The President Is Missing and presumed kidnapped by persons with hostile intent towards the United States of America.

With these words, an adventure of global proportions and diabolic intrigue begins.

On June 6, 1966, in the smallest country in Europe the largest terrorist action ever conceived was flawlessly executed and within minutes the President and the leaders of ten nations of Europe were abducted.

Where they were taken, by whom, and whether they are safe, no one can say.

An unidentified voice on tape claiming responsibility and issuing a list of impossible demands is only the starting point in an investigation of unprecedented dimension.

The case of characters ranges from the most powerful figures in Washington to most dangerous figures in terrorism.

The Vice-President — He must take the helm at the most critical period in U.S. history, but does the real power rest with the White House Chief of Staff?

The Director of the C.I.A. — He planned the security for the meeting of the Heads of State. Was he criminally negligent or is there a traitor in his midst?

The Head of Libya's Secret Army — Is this charismatic and deadly man organizing all the world's terrorist groups into an invincible, invisible army capable of an act of this magnitude, or is there more than meets the eyes to this mysterious leader?

The Secretary of Defense — He wants full-scale military action now! But against who? And is he prepared to sacrifice the lives of all the hostages to inact his vengeance?

The Secretary of State — He is not even a member of the President's inner circle, but it's his job to find the hostages before the world goes over the brink.

A special independent investigator is appointed by the Secretary to plow through the haystack of evidence and find the needle of truth.

You are the investigator. The world is in your hands.

Your Executive Commission:

1. Examine the dossiers.
2. Study the aerial and satellite photos.
3. Control eight field agents who can go undercover anywhere in the world.
4. Listen very carefully to the audio evidence tape to discover its secrets.
5. Decipher the coded messages that may hold the ultimate truth.
6. Monitor the events of a world crumbling into chaos.
7. Remember your independence: No one is above suspicion.

The Investigative Methodology

1. Study the official report on the abduction of the President of the United States found in the document files. Note the principals involved, the locations, and the timetables and equipment referred to. Look for discrepancies or weaknesses in the security system.
2. Open your case file and begin your report with your facts and conclusions regarding the official report and the events therein.
3. Listen to the acoustic intelligence collected on audio tape. Each piece of information may have significance relating to things already known or things yet to be discovered. It is a matter of preference whether the tape is studied in its entirety or each section is analyzed when thought to be pertinent. (A list of the material is found under audio files.)
4. Begin to examine the subject files. There are many and so you must decide whether to see only the files on persons that have been mentioned and wait until a name appears from another source before looking at their file, or you may, of course, examine as many files as you like and analyze the data therein looking for links, connections, personality traits and the importance of a subject's money, power or geographical location.
NOTE: Keep your case file updated. The distillation of the information that you put in there should be clearer than the totality found in the data files.
5. When you discover something you find to be of interest and you wish more information, assign a field agent to investigate. (Follow the guidelines set down in the S.I.S. manual for giving an order.)
6. Should you find a person or an address to be of particular interest or suspicion, you should then notify the State Department to detain and question the person officially or to investigate the address. (Remember that there are legal and international limits to the powers of the State Department.)
7. New information obtained from an agent or the State Department will usually contain further data to investigate. Use your agents liberally; they have very few legal or international limitations.
8. The most valuable information is found in coded form. All codes conform, in one configuration or another, to the deciphering tools available to you. While it can be time-consuming, do not be intimidated by an apparent complexity.
9. The photographic files are also a valuable source of insight. Look them over; do not overlook them.
10. Be aware that world events are proceeding outside and conditions everywhere are deteriorating quickly. If you can solve this crime, you will be saving more than the hostages.
11. GOOD LUCK. We're all counting on you.

THE WHITE HOUSE
EXECUTIVE ORDER
NO. 11130

APPOINTING A SPECIAL COMMISSION INVESTIGATOR TO REPORT ON THE ABDUCTION OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

Pursuant to the authority vested in me as Vice President of the United States, I hereby appoint a Special Investigator to the Commission on Abduction and Terrorism. The duties, responsibilities, and powers assigned herein are to ascertain, evaluate, and report upon the facts relating to the abduction of the President of the United States of America. Under the authority of the Acting Commander in Chief, the Special Investigator shall have made available:

- Federal Data Bases
- Federal Agency Reports
- Official Government Documents
- Public and private Records
- Intelligence Organizations Files
- Cooperation of related investigating Agencies

The purpose of commissioning an independent and external Investigator is to examine evidence developed by established Intelligence Sources and evaluate the facts and circumstances surrounding the abduction of the President to determine the perpetrators of the offense, the location of the abductees, and the feasibility of rescue and recovery operations through objective analysis free of centralized administrative limitation.

The Investigator is further charged with the obligation to respond to this office and other members of the National Security Council when required by authorized officers.

The Special Investigator is hereby empowered to prescribe independent methods and procedures and to compel cooperation when deemed necessary.

All Executive departments and agencies are directed to furnish any assistance or materials the Special Investigator may request.

VICE PRESIDENT
ACTING COMMANDER IN CHIEF

---

PURPOSE AND METHODOLOGY

The duties of the Investigator as prescribed by the Executive Order are herein detailed.

Examine the evidence compiled and made available to you and your staff, beginning with the Official Report on the abduction of the President and other executive officers of the nations of Europe. The report is filed under DOCUMENTS.

Analyze the methods, tactics, weapons, vehicles and personnel used by the perpetrators and evaluate their significance as conclusionary evidence.

Examine photographs of the attack site taken by aerial reconnaissance and security teams and determine the value of the details therein.

Listen to the Audio Evidence cassette and examine the transcripts of the material contained. Determine by careful and repeated examination what useful information can be obtained from this source.

Having been granted access to classified materials, use these resources to search for information concerning evidence, such as names, places, codewords, and other items that may have significance.

Coordinate the activities of persons that may have participated in any aspect of the events leading up to and following the abduction.

Use the Field Operatives to search for information that cannot be obtained from any other source at your disposal.

Take note of national and world events, as some public activities may have a bearing on the investigative process.

Maintain and update your case files as the investigation proceeds. These files will organize and place in perspective your research and facilitate a more efficient mode of operation. Also, the State Department and other official agencies will have access to these files and their contents will affect the decision-making process in formulating national policy and official response to events in this case.

The goal of the investigation is to expedite the recovery of the President and the other abductees safely and to bring those responsible for the offense to justice. The formal method used to this end is to reconstruct from the evidence the plan, execution and aftermath of the abduction and to reveal the identities of any and all persons involved directly or indirectly in the furtherance of this effort.

SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE SYSTEM

SIGN-ON PROCEDURES

Load the program from the cassette with the LOAD instruction. Following the Presidential Seal display, the Control Screen will appear. In the central work area of the Screen is a request to enter the day and time. On the initial loading of this program simply press RETURN to maintain the zero setting. Respond with a 'Y' to the next prompt confirming the values set. The main program will then commence.

After operating the program for any period of time and before turning off the computer, it is IMPORTANT to enter the CLOSE command. When this is done a request to note the day and time appears. Write down the digits as they are displayed on the screen on a piece of paper, including all leading zeros. This procedure must be done each time the program is terminated.

On any substantial loading of the program enter the day and time values when requested that were previously written down. After all ten digits are entered the prompt to confirm the values appears. Respond accordingly. A negative answer will allow the values to be re-entered.

This procedure is required to ensure the proper and linear operation of the program throughout repeated sessions that will be necessary to complete the investigation. If the program is shutdown without noting the day and time then on next loading enter the most recent values available or, at least, enter the best possible estimation from memory. DO NOT enter a totally arbitrary or unrealistic value as this will seriously disrupt the efficiency of the program.

CASE FILES

To collect, collate, and analyze information in an organized manner the user must create Case files. One or more blank cassettes will be required to store the generated data. Request FILES from the Control Screen. Then select number 3, for CASE PENDING. You will be prompted to select an existing file or establish a new file. As a first action a New file will be created.

CONTROL SCREEN

The Control Screen is accessed after the security sign-on procedure is completed. Subsequently, return to Control by hitting the RESTORE key.

The top section of the screen is reserved for communication, inquiries, and bulletins. The status line displays the project name, code, and day and time. Below the status line is the work area.

The REQUEST: prompt indicates that the system is waiting for a command. The commands are:

- FILES — access to security and case files.
- AGENT — open a communication to a field operative.
- CODES — access the deciphering section.
- COMMS — open communications with authorities.

Enter a request and press RETURN.

Incoming communications include messages and reports from the State Department, C.I.A., F.B.I., the Justice Department, and others involved in the case. It also includes news bulletins to inform the Investigator of ongoing national and world events relating to the investigation.

Another type of communication is reports from field operatives that are under the sole command of the Investigator.

RETURN TO CONTROL FROM ANY DISPLAY BY HITTING THE RESTORE KEY

---

Incoming communications are signalled to the terminal operator by a blinking light at the top of the screen followed by a description of the source. To receive the message, press the F7 function key.

If the message is from one of the field operatives press the F7 function key and the text of their report will be transmitted to the screen.

IMPORTANT: Each report will have a number.

THE TERMINAL MUST BE IN COMMAND MODE TO RECEIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

---

CASE FILE PROCESSOR

As the investigation proceeds, a large amount of information data is generated; such as items from other files, agent reports, and the Investigator's personal notes, ideas, and conclusions. The Processor is used to create and organize, store and retrieve this data. To access the Processor, request FILES and then CASE FILES.

A New file is begun by selecting number 2. New File. The program proceeds directly to the processor.

An existing file is retrieved by selecting number 1. Old File. You will be prompted to insert the proper cassette next and then press play on the tape. The file will load from cassette and then the program will proceed to the processor.

Text is entered on the Command line only. All keys function normally except the Up/Down cursor key that is used to scroll the entire text area. Enter a completed line with the RETURN key.

NOTE: Only uppercase characters are allowed. The insert function affects the Command line only.

When concluded working on a case file press the RUN/STOP key. If a printout of the entire file is desired answer 'Y'es to the HARD COPY prompt. The print function operates with most Commodore compatible printers and interfaces.

Next, a cassette will be requested to save the file. Proceed normally to do so. If you do not want the file saved, press the RUN/STOP key again to return to the Control Screen. IMPORTANT: Do not use the RESTORE key to escape from cassette functions. The Commodore cassette process will not allow this.

---

FILES

Upon request of FILES from the Control screen a list will be displayed:

1. Photographic
2. Confidential
3. Case Pending

Select the type of file by number.

SPECIAL FILE TYPES

Photographic files include the photo and a text description. These are toggled between using the F1 function key. Additionally there is a magnify function that enables close up scanning of the photo. This is turned on or off using the F3 function key. A joystick in port 2 is required to scan the image.

Case Files are generated by the Investigator and are discussed elsewhere.

Confidential files have code names and cannot be accessed directly.

Special security clearance is required that can only be granted by the President or, in his absence, the Director of the C.I.A.

Any attempt to override these security measures by deciphering the code is a Federal offense and carries the maximum penalties allowed by law.

AGENT

The Investigator has at their disposal eight field operatives. They can be assigned individually to collect intelligence anywhere in the world as the investigation requires. They are trained, experienced people and are directed by the highest authority to carry out the orders of the Investigator, forgoing any allegiance or association with any other department, agency, or person.

They are covert operatives and are empowered only to investigate. They cannot arrest, detain, or otherwise interact confrontationally with anyone without compromising their own security positions.

Upon REQUEST of AGENT a list of the codenames will be displayed. Select an agent by number and a communication channel to that agent will be established via the Pyramider satellite network. When prompted, enter an order to the agent.

---

The nature and structure of the order must be very specific and must fall within the category of a Person, Place or Thing. If it is a person that is to be investigated the order must be the full name of the person and nothing else. Partial or incomplete names will reduce the viability of the agent's efforts.

If it is a place then it must be a single specific location. If it is a house, apartment, or building then an address should be given in the form of number, street, city. (Ex. 1499 CARLSON, LONDON) (Do not space near the comma.) If the place is a name, such as CLARINGTON HOTEL, then enter the name exactly as you find it in your source.

A thing must also be specific and not general, like CAR or BOAT. However this category is difficult to predict or confine. Therefore, only experimentation will guide the Investigator here. The best guideline is the source of the item. If it is found in a file, write it as found. If it is something in a picture or in the Audio File then the form is at the discretion of the Investigator.

When the order is typed to satisfaction, press RETURN. The order will be acknowledged.

The time required for an agent to complete the investigation varies considerably depending on the nature of the subject. The agent, once assigned, can be recalled and reassigned. The list of agents will show if they are currently on assignment or not.

COMMS

In addition to responding to inquiries, the Investigator can communicate requests to the State Department through the Security Supervisor. Upon REQUEST or COMMS will be displayed the two types of requests that may be submitted.

1. DETAIN AND QUESTION SUSPECT
2. CAPTURE AND SECURE PREMISES

Select the request by number. If a suspect is to be detained, enter the suspect's full name and press RETURN. A report will be filed with the Investigator's office upon completion of the action.

If a location is to be secured by force, enter the address in the form of number, street, city and press RETURN. A report will be filed upon completion of the action.

NOTE: Follow the guidelines set down in the AGENT section as to the entry of names and addresses.

---

INCOMING REPORTS

Once an AGENT or STATE request has been made, response to the request will be forthcoming. The incoming report will be signalled by the appropriate light flashing on the screen. Answer the call by pressing the F7 function key.

The form of the report will be a report number, a subject and a list of words or phrase segments.

The number corresponds to the numbered Agent or State files found in the manual. The subject and the string segments following fill the blank spaces in these files thus producing a completed report on the subject. The order of words in the report are the order they fit into the blanked file. Words separated by a slash (/) are considered separated segments.

C.A.D. REPORTS

When Agent or State reports come in some of them will contain coded material. This material will be accompanied by a C.A.D. file number. Upon requesting CODES from the Control screen, four decoding options are provided. If you wish to send the coded material to the Deciphering Department select number 4. At this point you will be asked for the C.A.D. file number. Enter the number found in the report. If this is a valid file number the request will be acknowledged. The analysis will follow in due course as a State Report. This Report will be complete on screen and does not correspond to any file in the manual.

---

CODES

Some intelligence that is gathered during the course of the investigation may be in code. The type of code used is unpredictable. There are two possible modes of response to this circumstance.

The first is to send the material to the CAD (Cryptographic Analysis and Deciphering) Section at Langley. A report of their findings will be filed upon completion of the analysis.

The alternative to this is for the Investigator to attempt to decode the material. To this end, a limited set of decoding tools are made available at the terminal. The system is not comparable with the CAD facilities but insight, ingenuity and immediate response may compensate.

The decoding program is user-instructive, prompting the operator to enter data and parameters as needed. The material to be decoded is entered on the screen in the manner of the Case File processor. Only the amount that can fit within the screen work space is acted upon.

When the material is on the screen as desired, press the F7 function key to begin the deciphering process. When prompted, enter the parameter as described and press RETURN. If the particular parameter is not required then press the N key and the instruction will be bypassed. As each parameter is requested, enter the data and RETURN or N as necessary. After all prompts are answered, the material will be acted upon and the result will be displayed on the screen.

At this point, the decoding process may be repeated or restarted.

To repeat is to act upon the new material that was generated by the previous attempt. If this is desired, simply begin answering the prompts once more as before.

To restart is to restore the material to its original form and begin the process over again. Press F7 to accomplish this action.

Any combination of parameters may be tried during one pass. With some simple codes only one parameter is necessary. With others, more complicated combinations will be needed. The most sophisticated codes will require more than one pass using a different combination of parameters each time. Although much of this work is, by nature, trial and error, some insight into the structure of a code may become apparent as different methods are tried. Also, coded material from similar sources may have similar keys. This would only be known to the experienced Investigator and is one of the advantages over sending the Intelligence out to CAD.

TO: THE SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR

The Second Phase of THE PRESIDENT IS MISSING! now begins.

Having completed your assignment regarding the kidnapping of the President of the United States and further having identified all persons who were involved in the perpetration of this crime, the process of criminal indictment, prosecution and possible conviction commences. It is now your responsibility to provide a list of known suspects and those others involved in the plot, along with the evidence you have obtained leading to their arrest. The thoroughness and accuracy of your investigation will determine the court's verdict and sentence. Upon receipt of this material, along with a self-addressed stamped envelope, at the address listed below, you will be notified as to the outcome of this case based upon the validity of your evidence.

The dedication of a statue of newly inaugurated President Robert J. Matton was held today in front of the Therion Society Building. The society was founded by law school Alumni Matton in 1975 as an off campus honors club. Since then the roster of members has been very impressive, reflecting the level of scholastic and life achievement of its founding member. Members have included Secretary of Defense Cadwallader, Secretary of the Treasury Schatzman, Chief of Staff of the White House Andrew Woodhouse and other notables.

The Therion Society has celebrated an annual reunion since its creation that has always been chaired by businessman then Senator Matton. It is hoped that even though Mr. Matton is now President Matton that this tradition will not be abandoned.

DEDICATION AT THE UN

January 1996 – New York

A special ceremony was held today at the United Nations Building for a new scientific research ship.

The vessel has been christened
"Geoceanus". With research teams from dozens of countries sharing the ultra-modern facilities onboard, the "Geoceanus", also called the UN1, will travel the oceans of the world throughout this geophysical year.

Some of the projects planned for this spring and summer include mapping the floor of the Indian Ocean to trace currents that may be changing the duration of the monsoon season; and a survey of the richest archaeological area on earth, the Mediterranean.

Official Report of the Abduction of the President of the United States.

On June 6, 1996, President Robert J. Matton conducted a confidential meeting with ten European heads of state in the Principality of Liechtenstein. The site of the meeting was the Royal Summer Estate, also known as the Rotes House.

The meeting was arranged with the European leaders by the President during the two months preceding the economic summit conference in Zurich, Switzerland that all members of the Commonwealth and the President would attend.

For security reasons, the exact time and place of the meeting was not made known to the members until June 6, one hour before transportation by Swiss army and secret service personnel was ready.

Each member was notified personally by a Secret Service agent and taken to the helicopter that would fly to the site in Liechtenstein, 50 miles East.

Security in Liechtenstein was a joint Swiss/American operation supervised on site by Chris Inatt, Secret Service Chief. Security arrangements with the governments of the other dignitaries was coordinated by the State Department and the operational design was headed by CIA Director Hugh Malin. Swiss army personnel provided perimeter surveillance on the ground and air cover in UH1N Bell helicopters with secret service supervision. Ground personnel on site was made up of secret service, CIA, and European security personnel.

The President arrived at the site at 4:30 by helicopter. The other members had all assembled by 5:30. Security groups arrived throughout the day by helicopter. The meeting commenced at 5:40.

At 5:52, a UH1D Bell helicopter with no identifying markings approached the site. Communications received a request for clearance. The security procedure was observed and the pilot of the helicopter radioed back the correct code word "Darkstar". The difference in the helicopter make was not noted as all aircraft was provided by the Swiss.

Chief Inatt approved the clearance and the helicopter continued the approach. As it neared the touchdown pad, the US1D fired a salvo of rockets at the ground. The rockets did not hit the main building or ground personnel.

Analysis showed later that the explosion of the rockets released CG27 gas, a disabling compound thought to be used by soviet troops while in Afganistan. Ground forces returned fire but succumbed to the gas very quickly.

Reports from Swiss troops outside the attack area indicate that two additional helicopters approached the site almost immediately after the first helicopter opened fire. They also fired rocket-launch gas bombs around the site and shell fragments later revealed that at least two rockets detonated inside the building, approximately 30 yards away from the conference room.

It is presumed that the CG27 gas flooded the rooms rendering the members of the meeting unconscious.

When air security helicopters arrived at the site at 5:56 they were fired upon by machine gun. A secret service agent was mortally wounded.

The site was engulfed in smoke and visibility was poor. Some pilots began to feel the effects of the gas and withdrew before losing control of the craft.

Perimeter security personnel arrived at the site at 5:58. The gas had begun to dissipate but close approach was not possible until 6:03. Reports indicate that two helicopters were on the ground near the building for about 3 minutes.

It is speculated that because of the capacity of a UH1D that all three must have landed at some point to take the hostages on board.

At 5:59 the suspect helicopters left the site at high speed in different directions. Swiss aircraft had been approaching the site as the gas weakened and made contact. However, the confusion caused by the similarity of helicopters added to by conflicting radio transmissions between the Swiss and the suspect craft prevented confrontation. The radio voices were said to sound American and identified themselves as secret service or CIA agents to confuse the pursuers.

Subsequent analysis of satellite and surveillance coverage of the area show three suspect helicopters flying south from the site on different courses.

The trails began to converge above Northern Italy at approximately 6:30 and dropped below detection level just north of Venice, on the coast of the Adriatic Sea.

At 6:04, Swiss ground and air forces approached the site of the abduction. Dozens of security people were still unconscious on the ground. The Building could not be entered until additional supplies arrived at 6:25 because the CG27 gas was trapped inside.

When the conference room was finally entered they discovered chairs over, papers scattered and items knocked from the walls by the vibration of explosion. All of the attending members were gone.

To the Special Investigator,

I will not say who I am, because I am a coward. But the whole world has been plunged into chaos and I must do something. Believe me when I say that everything is going to break loose if the people who did this are allowed to continue. You must find the truth! It's in the files. You may be the only one who can see it, but it's there. Look for it. I'm not crazy.

It's in the files!
